- ☐ A. Rebuttable Presumption Arises Under 18 U.S.C. § 3142(e)(2) (previous violator): There is a rebuttable presumption that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the safety of any other person and the community because the following conditions have been met:
- ☐ (1) the defendant is charged with one of the following crimes described in 18 U.S.C. § 3142(f)(1):
 - ☐ (a) a crime of violence, a violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1591, or an offense listed in 18 U.S.C. § 2332b(g)(5)(B) for which a maximum term of imprisonment of 10 years or more is prescribed; or

 - ☐ (2) the defendant has been convicted of a federal offense that is described in 18 U.S.C. § 3142(f)(1), or of a State or local offense that would have been such an offense if a circumstance giving rise to federal jurisdiction had existed; and

- ☐ C. Application of Any Presumption Established Above
- ☒ The defendant has not rebutted the presumption.
 - OR
 - ☐ The defendant has rebutted the presumption.

Part III - Analysis and Statement of the Reasons for Detention

After considering any applicable presumption, the nature and circumstances of the defendant's alleged conduct, the defendant's history and characteristics, the other factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3142(g), the information presented at the detention hearing, and the available conditions of release under 18 U.S.C. § 3142(c), the Court concludes that the defendant must be detained pending trial because the Government has proven:

- ☒ By clear and convincing evidence that no condition or combination of conditions of release will reasonably assure the safety of any other person and the community.
- ☒ By a preponderance of evidence that no condition or combination of conditions of release will reasonably assure the defendant's appearance as required.

The reasons for detention include the following checked items (After this list, add any additional items or explanations as needed to comply with the requirement for a written statement of reasons under 18 U.S.C. § 3142(i).):

- ☒ The offense charged is a crime of violence, a violation of § 1591, a federal crime of terrorism, or involves a minor victim or a controlled substance, firearm, explosive, or destructive device.
- ☐ Weight of evidence against the defendant is strong.
- ☒ Subject to lengthy period of incarceration if convicted.
- ☒ Lack of significant family or other ties to the community.
- ☒ Significant family or other ties outside the United States.
- ☒ Lack of legal status in the United States.
- ☒ Subject to removal or deportation after serving any period of incarceration.
- ☐ Lack of stable residence.
- ☒ Lack of stable employment.
- ☒ Lack of financially responsible sureties.
- ☐ Prior attempt(s) to evade law enforcement.
- ☐ Use of alias(es) or false documents.
- ☐ History of alcohol or substance abuse.
- ☐ Prior criminal history.
- ☒ History of violence or use of weapons.
- ☐ Prior violations of probation, parole, or supervised release.
- ☐ Prior failure to appear in court as ordered.
- ☐ On probation, parole, and/or release pending trial, sentence appeal, or completion of the sentence at the time of the alleged offense.
- ☐ Participation in criminal activity while on probation, parole, or supervision.
- ☒ The defendant's release poses serious danger to any person or the community.

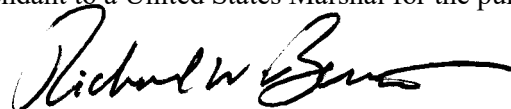

OTHER REASONS OR FURTHER EXPLANATION:

Detention hearing based on the presumption under 18 USC 3142(e)(3) held. Based on evidence and testimony, the Court finds no evidence was proffered by the Defendant to rebut the presumption of danger to any person or the community or the appearance of such person as required. Defendant produced some evidence to rebut the presumption of risk of nonappearance, but mere production does not completely rebut the presumption. U.S. v. Druilhet, 2016 WL 7443668, at *3 (W.D. La. Dec. 22, 2016). Even if evidence had been sufficient to rebut both presumptions, the Court considers the presumption along with the 18 USC 3142(g) factors and orders detention as it finds, by a preponderance of evidence, Defendant poses a risk of nonappearance, and by clear and convincing evidence, he poses a danger to the community, based on the following: (1) While Defendant is allowed to be in the United States on a pending asylum application, he has no lawful status and is engaging in criminal activity, including being involved in an international cocaine distribution conspiracy with members of Tren De Aragua, a designated Foreign Terrorist Organization; (2) is also suspected on engaging in state criminal activity in Colorado for kidnapping and engaging in retail theft with other Tren de Aragua members and is photographed with some of these members, one who is wanted on a murder warrant out of Colombia; (3) faces significant time if convicted in the current federal case; (4) has significant family ties to Venezuela; (5) lacks financial resources and has minimal employment history in the United States; (6) is subject to deportation after any prison sentence; (7) has been identified as illegally possessing a firearm by photos produced by the Government and by the kidnapping victim in Colordado, who identified Defendant as beating her; (8) has traveled internationally to Ecuador; (9) has lived in the United States for only about three years, and thus, has minimum ties to the United States, other than his wife and children; (10) had a Glock "switch," which converts a pistol from semi-automatic to automatic, delivered to his residence (11) and the Court notes that continued drug trafficking poses a special risk to the community. See id. For these reasons, detention is ordered.

Part IV - Directions Regarding Detention

The defendant is remanded to the custody of the Attorney General or to the Attorney General's designated representative for confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or being held in custody pending appeal. The defendant must be afforded a reasonable opportunity for private consultation with defense counsel. On order of a court of the United States or on request of an attorney for the Government, the person in charge of the corrections facility must deliver the defendant to a United States Marshal for the purpose of an appearance in connection with a court proceeding.
